What is a pilgrimage?

A pilgrimage is reflective of our faith and life journey, which is dynamic and ever-changing. In life, we are not always progressing the way we should. There are times when we find ourselves moving forward, and at other times we find ourselves stationary. In fact, there are even times when we may regress slightly. But through all these different "movements" of our journey, we are essentially moving on the path towards God. And this is precisely what happens on a pilgrimage.

Life brings with it various experiences which affect us in different ways. When we go on pilgrimages together, we offer everything of our human experience to God, including our fears, our hopes, our desires, our dreams, our doubts, our ailments and our gratitude. We walk together to witness the faith of God's People at sacred shrines, and we pray what we see while uniting ourselves with the faith of the Church.

Pilgrimages are by nature unsettling, just like life itself is. Just when we think everything is going smoothly, life brings with it a surprise which can be pleasantly welcomed or begrudgingly unwanted. Although the organisers of such trips are often vigilant to ensure that the best arrangements are made for you, there are things that are often beyond their control, such as mishaps in flight connections, flight delays, unpleasant encounters with people, and mistaken directions. If we take all this in our stride and keep our hearts on the purpose of such a journey, we would see that the journey eventually leads towards our intended destination: God.

Throughout our trips, pilgrims are constantly reminded to keep their hearts and minds on the spiritual dimension over and above the physical dimension of the journey. Much will be expected of us in terms of transcending the discomforts that the unsettledness of a pilgrimage brings us. But at the same time, if we allow ourselves to be taken through the journey with vulnerability and humility, a "joy of suffering" will come upon us as a deep experience in being united to Christ.
